

global cancer control community

Global Cancer Control Community

The Global Cancer Control Community, is a community of experts, researchers, professionals, project managers, advocates and other individuals engaged in the fight against cancer, enabling them to network with their peers around the world.

The Community is open to

- cancer researchers
- health professionals
- clinicians
- nurses
- general practitioners
- epidemiologists
- registrars
- educators
- medical and nursing students
- professionals working on vaccines and cancer
- health-care workers engaged in primary and secondary cancer prevention, supportive, psychosocial and palliative care
- staff at decision-level in cancer organizations, treatment centres, health institutes, health ministries and other governmental and non-governmental agencies
- leaders of patient advocacy groups
- volunteers engaged in cancer control work

What we offer

- networking with peers
- blogs
- discussion groups
- access to experts
- personal email address
- global news alert
- daily cancer news
- e-learning opportunities
- training opportunities
- funding opportunities
- e-libraries
- events

How to join

To join the Global Cancer Control Community please visit www.uicc-community.org and register online. Discounts are available for members from low-and middle-income countries.

www.uicc-community.org